

Maintaining a healthy diet with school

Authors: RJ Allen, Dakota Hawkins, Guo Han, Yixuan Liu

Problem Statement:

People are having problems with maintaining their food intake while traveling a long distance (mostly by foot) to get to their classes. I want to solve how we can manage what type of food we eat and how much we should eat.

Who is experiencing the problem?

(mostly college) Any individuals who are dealing with walking a long distance between lunch and their classroom buildings.

What is the Problem?

Healthy nutritional intake can be hard to maintain with a college schedule

Where does the problem present itself?

In school campuses.

Why does it matter?

People are likely to get sick because of the heat because they don't maintain enough nutrition.
